

Dear participants,

The Organizing Committee of the "Non-Ferrous Metals and Minerals" Congress expresses its gratitude for your interest in the event.

Core value of the forum is its face-to-face format, so the Congress and Exhibition were planned and prepared in a familiar form with means for live communication, personal meetings, participation in discussions, sessions and exhibition. Unfortunately, the danger and duration of unfavorable epidemiological situation in Russia and worldwide exceeded our estimates and we are witnessing further complications on a daily basis. The dynamics of coronavirus spread forces us to reintroduce restrictive measures. Under the given circumstances, the Congress and Exhibition will pose a threat to the health and safety of the guests.

Therefore, feeling concern and responsibility for the participants and having considered all the risks, the Organizing Committee is forced to postpone the Congress and Exhibition until the next year - 2022.

We hope that you will understand and support us in this difficult decision, which we consider a necessary measure in such an extraordinary situation.

Our profound appreciation goes to all the participants, organizers and sponsors for their continued support, expression of good intentions and collaborative approach. We are looking forward to seeing everyone again next time!

Be healthy, take care of yourself and your loved ones!

Yours Sincerely,

Chairman of the Organizing Committee

Peter Polyakov
